In view of the newly added claims filed on February 23, 2005, the pending claims are unpatentable as following:

Claim Objections

1. Claims 34 and 47 are objected to because of the following informalities: in claim 34, line 5 the term "hereof" should be changed to -- thereof --; in claim 47 "a organic" should be changed to -- an organic --. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. Claims 34 and 37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 34, line 6 "the material" is vague and indefinite, as it is unclear whether or not applicant is referring that to the "cured core".

In claim 37, "the plane of the material" lacks antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 34-47 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Nakatani (US 5888627).

Nakatani teaches a printed circuit board comprised of an organic non-woven fabric impregnated with an uncured thermosetting resin to form an insulating substrate.

The thermosetting resin that applied onto both surface of the organic non-woven fabric and has a combined thickness from 50-300  $\mu\text{m}$  (col 4 L 55-58).

Through holes are formed in the thickness direction of the insulating substrate and electroconductive paste is used to fill into the through holes. Metal wirings are formed onto the surfaces of the insulating substrate and are in electrical connection with the electroconductive paste in the through holes (col 3 L 13-15 & L 23-26).

The prior art teaches the same processing steps as of the present invention. The prior art however is silent about some physical dimensions of the product, such as the core thickness, the percent amount of the reinforcement material used, via hole diameters, etc.

In view of the prior art teaching, one skill in the art would choose a desired amount of reinforcing material, the via hole diameters, the thickness, etc. because choosing these variables is just a matter of design choice.

Double Patenting

3. Claims 34-47 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-10 of U.S. Patent No. 6,245,696. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because they are structurally and materially the same.

4. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140

F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).
